DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-42 and 48, drawn to a scanning probe microscope assembly, classified in class 250, subclass 234.
 - II. Claims 43-47, drawn to a scanning microscope probe with an obdurate layer, classified in class 250, subclass 306.
 - III. Claim 49, drawn to a photodiode tip, classified in class 250, subclass 214.1.
 - IV. Claims 50-53, drawn to a scanning microscope probe with a light emissive layer, classified in class 250, subclass 308.
 - V. Claim 54, drawn to a microscope system, classified in class 359, subclass 368.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions of Groups I-IV and Group V are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions involve different technologies. Group I involves scanning probe microscopy while Group V simply involves general microscopy and color displaying. Groups II-IV involves various types of probes and does not relate to displaying and color mapping.

3. Inventions of Group I and Groups II-IV are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because any type of probe can be used for scanning probe microscopy. The subcombination has separate utility such as tips for recording and reading information off of an optical medium.

4. Inventions of Groups II, III and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different structures. The invention of each group (Groups II-IV) involves a different structure of the probe or tip. Further, having to search for each different type of structured probe presents a burden on the examiner.

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Groups I-IV is not required for Group V, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

8. A telephone call was made to David Slone on July 22, 2002 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
